News story #1      Calgary farmers' market destroyed in fire (0:14)

Setting the Scene

Farmers' markets are popular places to go shopping. People sell all kinds of food: fruits and vegetables, meat, baked goods, and prepared food such as soups and sandwiches. People also sell crafts and other homemade goods. Symons Valley Ranch is a farmers' market in the northwest of Calgary. A fire destroyed most of the market last week. The main building is mostly made of wood, which can burn quickly. Luckily, it seems that nobody was hurt in the fire. Fire officials do not yet know what caused the fire.

Pre-listening Questions

Where do you usually buy groceries? How often?

Is food shopping different in Canada and in your home country? Explain how.

Farmers often sell their food at markets. Where else can they sell their food?

News story #2*Wildrose leader wants a united Conservative Party (1:11)*Setting the Scene

Canada has several major political parties. They exist at the federal, provincial, and sometimes municipal level. Sometimes, two parties with similar points of view will join together to become one new party. This can help parties attract more support and more voters. The Wildrose Party is a provincial party in Alberta. It is considered a right-wing party, with conservative policies, values and goals. Currently, there are two right-wing parties in Alberta: the Progressive Conservative Party and the Wildrose Party. There is talk about joining these parties together into one right-wing party. This may give the right-wing politicians of Alberta a better chance of winning the next election.

Pre-listening Questions

Do you follow provincial politics? Do you follow Calgary politics or national politics?

What do you know about the Wildrose Party? What are some of their beliefs?

Are Canada's political parties similar to the parties in your home country?

News story #3 Trump to consider Keystone XL pipeline project (2:23)

Setting the Scene

Pipes for TransCanada's planned Keystone XL pipeline (Alex Panette/The Canadian Press) (CBC file photos)

Canada is a country that is rich in natural resources. One of these resources is the oil in Alberta's oilsands. A large portion of this oil is exported and sold to overseas buyers, including the United States. TransCanada proposed a pipeline that would transport oil directly from Alberta to the United States. That pipeline project was called Keystone XL. In 2015, the US rejected the Keystone XL plan. However, the United States has a new president: Donald Trump. Many people believe that trade deals between Canada and the United States will change because of this new president.

Pre-listening Questions

Have you heard of the Keystone XL project? Have you heard of other pipeline projects?

Why do some people support Keystone XL? Why do some people oppose it?

What other Canadian goods do you think are exported to the US?

Transcripts of Weekly news stories

	JANUARY WEEKLY NEWS STORIES	TIME
Introduction	Hi, I'm Shannon Scott and this is Learning English with CBC for January 30 th with stories that made news over the past week.	0:00
Story 1	A popular farmers market in Calgary's northwest has been destroyed by fire. The fire at Symons Valley Ranch started early Monday morning. Fire crews were called to the Ranch around 6am. They found it difficult to fight the fire because of leaking natural gas. The gas company had to shut off the supply. 40 people living downwind of the fire were asked to leave their homes until the air quality improved. It doesn't appear anyone was injured during the blaze, and owners of the market confirmed no vendors were inside when the fire started. The cause of the fire is under investigation.	0:14
Story 2	The leader of Alberta's Wildrose party has said he is willing to step down as leader and then try to become the leader of a new united Conservative Party. Brian Jean says uniting the Wildrose Party with the Alberta Progressive Conservative Party would give Conservatives in the province the best chance to win the next election. Jean says the move would have to be approved by members of the Wildrose, and if that happened, he could run for leader of the united party this summer. This is a change for Jean. In October 2016, he rejected talk of joining with the PCs. The Alberta PC party members are in the process of choosing a new leader. Former federal MP Jason Kenney is seeking the leadership of that party. He is running on a promise to try to "unite the right".	1:11
Story 3	US President Donald Trump has given new life to TransCanada's Keystone XL pipeline. The pipeline, which would take oil from Alberta to Nebraska, had been turned down by former president Barack Obama. Trump signed a presidential memorandum on Tuesday, which means TransCanada can reapply for pipeline approval in the United States. But Trump says any approval would come with conditions and a renegotiation, including a demand that the pipeline be built with American steel. It's not clear what that could mean for Canada or the project. The decision by Trump was supported by Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, Calgary Mayor Naheed Nenshi and Premier Rachel Notley.	2:23
